Compri Consulting Acquires Portland-based Evo Solutions

DENVER-Compri Consulting, Inc. (Compri), a Denver-based technology services firm, recognized for its vibrant culture and high staff retention, is pleased to announce the acquisition of Evo Solutions, a management consulting and technology staffing firm based in Portland, Oregon, that provides a full suite of resource management solutions to its clients in the Pacific Northwest.

“Our legacy of delivering excellence in IT services has expanded to the North Western U.S.,” said Tom Melaragno, CEO of Compri. “With the addition of Evo, we have a natural complement to Compri’s culture, diverse client portfolio and customer-centric value set that will further our goal of regional expansion while delivering the highest quality IT services to the marketplace.”

“While we’ve been happily serving the Portland area for over nine years, Compri has been doing the same in Denver for 26 years,” remarked Evo Managing Partner Tom Flynn. “I’m excited that our services will now be able to reach more companies, and that our employees will be joining a growing entity that shares a similar culture and values to ours.”

Compri, founded in 1992, provides IT professional services to companies nationwide. “This transaction allows us to combine forces with a company whose values are closely aligned with ours and provides the opportunity for two complementary companies to come together and pursue continued success and growth opportunities for our employees. The overlap in the companies’ synergies is extraordinary and made the partnership an instant fit,” states Melaragno.

Compri Consulting headquarters is located on Blake Street in the RiNo district of downtown Denver. Visit us at www.compri.com.
